

Our Mission:

The mission of VDPAM is to educate current and future food animal veterinarians, population medicine scientists and stakeholders by increasing our understanding of issues that impact the health, productivity and well-being of food and fiber producing animals; developing innovative solutions for animal health and food safety; and providing the highest quality, most comprehensive clinical practice and diagnostic services.

Vision of VDPAM:

VDPAM IS RECOGNIZED AS A LEADER, SOUGHT AS A COLLABORATOR, AND TRUSTED AS A PROVIDER OF SOLUTIONS TO THE FOOD ANIMAL AND POPULATION MEDICINE CHALLENGES OF THE WORLD.

Our department is made up of highly trained specialists who span a wide range of veterinary disciplines and species interests.

We have faculty of all ranks with expertise in diagnostics, medicine, surgery, pathology, microbiology, epidemiology, public health, and production medicine. Many have earned certification from specialty boards.
